Members of the Admissions Committee of Middle Tennessee School of Anesthesia feel strongly that candidates for admission to MTSA should have:

- Experience working with patients who are monitored with invasive hemodynamic monitors (Swan-Ganz), and demonstrate an understanding of the wave-forms in these monitors
- Been the nurse responsible for administration of vasoactive drugs to patients, and who demonstrate an understanding of why these drugs are administered and their effects on the body. This includes actions at the cellular level and side effects of the drugs.
- Experience with mechanically ventilated patients.
- ACLS certification and capable of answering questions regarding algorithms and drugs used for the various cardiac scenarios presented in that course.
- Experience with ventilated patients and ability to correctly answer questions related to intubation, extubation and high/low ventilator alarm causes.

To help the Committee compare experience of candidates more accurately, each candidate for admission is asked to accurately complete the following:

Applicants to MTSA should be prepared to have a brief (10 minute) interview with the Admissions Committee (8-12 members). This Committee will have copies of your file and will feel they know quite a bit about you from your transcripts, your personal letter, references, and from your answers to the proceeding questions. In order to facilitate the interview, the Committee has asked that all applicants be prepared to answer clinical questions related to their work place.

The candidate should be able to answer questions regarding the physiologic action of pharmacologic agents (intravenous vasoactive infusions) and other drugs they commonly administer to their patients both who are and who are not invasively monitored. It would be wise to know not only the organ where these drugs work, but the receptor sites as well, and any intracellular actions if known. The applicant should know any toxic or side effects of these drugs. Questions related to Swan-Ganz waveforms in the various positions, ventilators, ACLS algorithms, and oximeters are common.

(The applicant is encouraged to keep a copy of this information to assist in preparation for admission)
